

Road Map to earning a Public Relations Certificate

Below is a suggested course study plan in order to earn a Public Relations Certificate.

Certificates represent proficiency in theory and practice in specific areas. They can be acquired as vocational training, in conjunction with the pursuit of an AA degree or while satisfying requirements for transferring to a four-year degree program.

Many of the required and elective courses overlap, and students frequently find they qualify for certificates in addition to degrees.

Fall Semester

JOUR 101
JOUR 110
PHOT 111
JOUR 210

Spring Semester

JOUR 102
JOUR 132
JOUR 140
DART 140

Fall Semester

JOUR 222
CRTV 129

* These are just a suggestion of the courses to take. Course order can be changed and elective courses can be replaced by other electives from the list.

The Journalism Program is part of the Communications Department at Fullerton College. Information about the Communications Department can be found in the department office in Room 719-01

For more information about the program and degree contact: Jay Seidel - jseidel@fullcoll.edu - (714) 992-7575.